ON THE

TRADE CARRIED BY RAIL AND RIVER IN BENGAL

IN THE OFFICIAL YEAR 1900-01

SEASONS AND THE CROPS

THE general character of the seasons within the twelve months under review (1st April 1900 to 31st March 1901) was on the whole not favourable for the bhadoi or rain crops, of which the produce forms the autumn harvest. The rainfall in April and May was deficient, and in June and July it was unequally distributed. In August it was again deficient. In September it was sufficient everywhere, and exceptionally heavy in the Presidency, Burdwan and Orissa Divisions. In October it ceased abruptly. The crops concerned within these months, excluding Jute and Indigo which will be noticed separately, were cultivated over an area of 13⅛ million acres. The area was smaller than the average, and consisted as usual almost wholly of food crops, chiefly rice and maize. The total yield was estimated at 88 per cent of the normal, including the rice crop, the actual outturn of which was estimated at 48⅜ million cwt of cleaned grain.

The winter rice crop was sown over 28½ million acres, an area which was about 2 million acres less than the estimated normal. The season was on the whole an unfavourable one, resulting in an yield estimated at about 280 million cwt or 84 per cent of the normal.

The season for the rabi or cold weather crops, the produce of which forms the spring harvest, was reported as on the whole unfavourable to the growth and ripening of the crops. At the commencement of October 1900 (in which month the rains ceased abruptly) the Presidency Division had not recovered from the excessive rain of the preceding month, while many districts of Northern and Eastern Bengal received a deficient fall. In October and in November there was little or no rain, and sowings were reduced. In the next three months the rainfall considerably exceeded the normal in Chota Nagpur, Orissa, and parts of Bihar and was deficient in North and East Bengal. The excess of rain did damage in some districts, while the want of it was seriously felt elsewhere. The crops concerned, excluding wheat, oilseeds, and sugarcane which will be noticed separately, were cultivated on an area of 9 million acres, consisting as usual principally of cereals and pulses, barley, gram, summer rice, and tobacco. The total outturn was estimated at fully 85 per cent of the normal, the actual quantity of rice being reckoned at 3 million cwt.

The area under Jute was two million acres, and yielded an estimated outturn of 6⅝ million bales of fibre of 400 lb. each, this yield being about 97 per cent of the normal.

Indigo was grown on 360,600 acres, and the yield of dye was 78 per cent of the normal.

Wheat was cultivated on 1½ million acres, and yielded half a million tons of grain according to the estimate.

Oilseeds suffered from an excess of rain in many districts and from a comparative drought in others. The area sown was estimated to be below the normal and was under four million acres. The yield in seeds was reckoned at 80 per cent of the normal.

The area under Sugarcane, which was 857,500 acres, was less than the average. The crop was estimated at 94 per cent of the normal, and the outturn of gur at a little less than 18 million cwt, which was better than the preceding year when it was 16⅜ million cwt.

As a direct consequence of the unfavourable seasonal conditions the prices of food grains generally in the several divisions ruled on the whole higher than usual, and large exports kept up prices. Taking the rates which ruled at typical centres such as Dacca, Calcutta, Patna, and Pabna, the average works out as follows:—

	1899-1900		1900-01
Retail rates per rupee—	Srs	ch	Srs	ch
Rice (common)	16	0	12	13
Wheat	14	4	12	1

Sugar (gur)	4	7	6	4	14	4

ABSTRACT OF THE TRADE.

The total trade in merchandise (excluding treasure) carried by rail, and river between Calcutta and Bengal, between Calcutta and other Provinces, and between Bengal and the other Provinces in the last three years is stated in the following table:—

Broadly stated, the imports into Calcutta represent the convergence of the products of the country into the chief sea-port for shipment overseas, and the exports from Calcutta the distribution inland of goods received overseas, excepting in both cases the fraction consumed within the limits of the city. The figures in so far, therefore, as they represent the sea-borne trade of the port have already been reviewed by the Collector of Customs.

The value of the external trade of Calcutta, that is, trade with Provinces other than Bengal, is greater than the external trade of Bengal by about nine crores of rupees, the excess occurring wholly in the imports.

In the following table are exhibited the proportionate shares of the Provinces which have the largest trade with Calcutta:—

	Imports into and exports from Calcutta	Based on quantity			Based on value

By far the largest share belongs to the Province of which Calcutta is the chief port, and it has on the whole been on the increase; while the North-Western Provinces and Oudh exhibit a marked decrease in the comparative share both in imports (chiefly in grain, oilseeds, hides and skins) and in exports (chiefly coal and grain).

The principal articles which make up the imports into Calcutta from Bengal are, in the order of relative importance—raw jute, gunny-bags and cloth, rice, coal, linseed, opium, tea, grain and pulse, hides and skins, silk (raw and manufactured), and indigo; while those which form the chief items of export from Calcutta to Bengal are—cotton piece-goods (mostly European), salt, metals and manufactures of metals, railway plant and rolling-stock, sugar, cotton twist and yarn (European and Indian), and oils (chiefly rape and mustard and cocoanut).

From the North-Western Provinces and Oudh the imports into Calcutta are principally opium, oilseeds, grain and pulse, hides and skins, and wool manufactures; and the exports to those Provinces from Calcutta are mainly cotton piece-goods (mostly European), jute gunny-bags and cloth, metals, and sugar.

Assam sends to Calcutta principally tea, oilseeds, grain and pulse, and stone and lime, and receives from it cotton piece-goods (European), metals and manufactures of metals, oils (mostly rape and mustard), and salt.

In the following table are exhibited the proportionate shares of the Provinces having the largest trade with Bengal, as well as the proportion which the trade of Calcutta with Bengal bears to such trade:—

The principal articles in the trade between Bengal and Calcutta have been mentioned. The great comparative decrease in the exports to Calcutta is more apparent than real, and the result is due chiefly to the large increase in the exports to the Central Provinces, where the failure of crops caused a demand for food-grains which was largely supplied by Bengal.

The imports from the North-Western Provinces and Oudh consist principally, in the order of importance—of sugar, opium, oilseeds, cotton goods, and grain and pulse; and the exports to those Provinces are chiefly—grain and pulse, coal, lac, kerosene oil, jute gunny-bags and cloth, and tobacco.

The imports from Assam into Bengal consist chiefly of rice, timber, and coal; and the exports to Assam are principally grain, kerosene oil, spices, and sugar.

The exports to the Central Provinces, which have been assisted by the the opening of direct railway communication by the Bengal-Nagpur Railway, exhibit a considerable rise due to the large supplies of food-grains (chiefly rice) carried to those Provinces to meet the demands caused by the famine. Besides grain and pulse, the principal articles of export are raw silk and sugar; and the imports consist of railway plant and rolling-stock, and cotton manufactures (chiefly twist and yarn).

PRINCIPAL ARTICLES OF TRADE

The articles of the first importance in the trade carried by rail and river are cotton manufactures and grain and pulse. The imports of Cotton goods into Bengal are almost wholly from Calcutta, and consist largely of European piece-goods. Considerable despatches of these goods also take place from Calcutta to Assam and the Panjab; and it is noteworthy that of the total exports from Calcutta of cotton goods, about one-fourth goes by river.

The exports of Grain and pulse exhibit a large increase in the last two years, owing to considerable despatches from Bengal of rice, gram and pulse, to Calcutta chiefly, as well as to the Central and North-Western Provinces, and from Calcutta of rice to Bengal and the Central Provinces.

The articles which may be cited as next in order of importance are —jute (raw and manufactured), tea, oilseeds, coal and coke.

Jute, raw.—The largest exports take place from Bengal to Calcutta, and the figures show an increase in the last three years from 19⅓ to 25½ million maunds. The traffic by river is greater than that by rail.

Jute gunny-bags, and cloth.—The trade deals with the distribution of the manufactures of the several mills in Bengal, and in the first instance much goes by river to Calcutta. Large quantities are also distributed from Calcutta to Bengal, the North-Western Provinces, and the Panjab. The trade is on the whole a progressive one, the exports from Bengal (including exports to Calcutta) averaging more than one million maunds, and the distribution from Calcutta nine hundred thousand maunds.

Tea.—The trade consists almost entirely of the imports into Calcutta from Assam and Bengal, and has increased from 1½ to over 2 million maunds in the last three years.

Among Oilseeds, linseed and rape and mustard figure most largely, and the trade decreased, thus in lakhs of maunds:—

IMPORTS		1898-99	1899-1900	1900-01
Linseed.
Into Calcutta	...	81	79	52	Almost entirely from Bengal and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.
" Bengal	...	8	6	4	Almost entirely from the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.
Rape and mustard.
Into Calcutta	...	38	32	24	Most largely from the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, but also from Bengal and Assam.
" Bengal	...	5	4	6	Mostly from Calcutta, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and Assam.

Coal and coke.—This progressive trade exhibits a considerable increase, and represents almost entirely the distribution of the output of the mines in Bengal. The exports from Bengal rose from 73 to nearly 95 million maunds, and were as usual directed most largely to Calcutta, and in considerable quantity to the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, as also to the Panjab, Central Provinces, Bombay, Assam, Berar, and a little to Madras. Calcutta exports over one million maunds annually to Bengal, but this is practically all Bengal coal distributed by river. The normal importation of coal by river from Assam into Bengal exceeds one and-a-half million maunds.

The articles which come next in order of importance are metals and manufactures of metals, oils, hides and skins, and indigo.

Metals and manufactures of metals.—Exports to the value of two crores in each of the years 1898-99 and 1899-1900, and over two and-a-half crores in 1900-01 went from Calcutta, chiefly to Bengal, Assam, and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, more than one-third of the whole trade being carried by river. In addition the value of the exports from Bengal was 84, 89⅓, and 114½ lakhs, respectively, in the three years, most of these going to Calcutta and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, a greater portion being carried by river than by rail. The chief sub-head is iron and steel, and the trade in these metals (1,857,650 maunds in 1898-99, 1,991,852 in 1899-1900, and 2,059,731 in 1900-01), consists chiefly in exports of wrought metal and manufactures to Bengal, Assam, and the North-Western Provinces. Bengal also sends cast, unwrought, and wrought iron and steel in increasing quantities mostly to Calcutta: 294,594, 335,593, and 480,324 maunds, respectively, in the last three years.

Indigo.—The trade consists principally of the receipt of the dye into Calcutta from Bengal and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh. The total quantities received decreased from 121,331 maunds in 1898-99 and 85,509 in 1899-1900 to 80,506 maunds in 1900-01.

Hides and skins.—This trade also consists mostly of imports into Calcutta from Bengal and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and it fluctuates with the state of the seasons and the consequent mortality of cattle. In 1898-99 and 1899-1900 the quantities received into Calcutta amounted to 900,317 and 1,628,493 maunds, and in 1900-01 to 1,224,797 maunds, about half being received from Bengal.

Oils.—This trade is made up chiefly of exports from Calcutta, the total value of which was below 97 lakhs in 1898-99, over 86½ in 1899-1900, and 123 in 1900-01. The exports are mostly of rape and mustard oil to Bengal and Assam. On the other hand, Bengal despatched oils to the value of about 73 lakhs, 85½, and 81, respectively, in the last three years, consisting chiefly of kerosene oil from the depôt at Budge-Budge to Calcutta and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.

Other articles in which there is a very large or valuable trade are opium, provisions, salt, silk, sugar, spices, and tobacco.

Opium.—There was an increase in the imports into Calcutta both from Bengal and the North-Western Provinces, and into Bengal from the latter.

Provisions.—The only article specified under this comprehensive head is ghi, the trade in which, on the average of the last three years, is about 76 lakhs in value for imports and 25 lakhs for exports. The trade consists chiefly in the import of the article into Calcutta, by much the larger portion coming from Provinces other than Bengal, and the supplies are partly consumed in the city and partly exported by sea or distributed inland.

Other sorts of Provisions.—This head included until 1900-01 fruits and vegetables and wheat flour, which are now stated separately. The elimination of these articles is the cause of the great decrease in the figures of 1900-01, compared with those of the two preceding years.

Salt.—The trade consists principally of exports from Calcutta of the supplies received by sea, and has varied thus (in maunds)—

	1898-99	1899-1900	1900-01
From Calcutta to Bengal ...	7,242,204	7,679,304	7,538,566
„ „ other Provinces ...	893,981	944,200	881,979

Silk, raw.—The trade has fluctuated in the last three years. The largest trade is in Indian raw silk imported from Bengal into Calcutta and exported from Bengal to other Provinces. Of these two, the trade by the former direction, which is by far the more important, has fallen off from 21,119 maunds in 1898-99 to 14,037 in 1900-01, while by the latter it has increased from 2,460 to 4,113 maunds in the same period.

Sugar.—The figures have been as follows in the last three years, in maunds—(1) unrefined, (2) refined:—

Imports represent the sugar made in the country. There was an increase in the trade in 1899-1900 followed by a decrease in the next year. This fall would not have been expected from the character of the crop of 1900-01 which, as already noted, was 94 per cent of the normal, and gave an yield better than that of the preceding year by nearly two million cwt of raw sugar (gur). Part of the produce of the crop, however, had probably not been disposed of when the year closed, and besides an increase is shown under exports from Bengal to other Provinces which doubtless represent country produce. On the other hand, exports from Calcutta, which consist practically of foreign sugar imported overseas and distributed inland, exhibit a marked increase.*

Spices.—This trade calls for no particular remarks, except that the chief articles included are betel-nuts, chillies, cardamoms, ginger, and pepper, 95 per cent of the total trade being imports into Calcutta from Bengal, consisting mostly of betel-nuts, cardamoms, and chillies.

Tobacco.—The trade is an increasing one, and consists mostly of the unmanufactured article exported from Bengal to Calcutta and to other Provinces.

INTERNAL DISTRIBUTION OF THE EXTERNAL TRADE

Tables III and IV exhibit the trade of other Provinces and States with the internal registration blocks or divisions of Bengal. The view of the trade of which the main features have been noticed in the preceding paragraphs is thus expanded by displaying the place of consumption of the imports and production of the exports. Unfortunately, however, these tables give only the figures of the rail-borne trade, and the exclusion of the river-borne trade, which is an important share of the whole trade, has made the tables unsuitable for the purposes of a general review.

INTERNAL TRADE

Table V, which is defective by the omission of the figures of the river-borne trade, exhibits the internal trade by rail between each registration block or division of Bengal. The totals were as follows in the last three years—in lakhs of maunds:—

	Imports			Exports
	1898-99	1899-1900	1900-01	1898-99	1899-1900	1900-01

Total Trade ...	1,418	1,593	1,680	1,418	1,593	1,680

The largest part of the produce imported into Calcutta by rail comes from the Western block (chiefly coal and coke and grain and pulse), Chota Nagpur (chiefly coal and coke), and Bihar (chiefly oilseeds, and grain and pulse). The Northern, Eastern and Dacca blocks also send large quantities of jute and some grain and pulse.

The imports into the Eastern block are principally coal and coke from the Western districts and Chota Nagpur, jute from the Northern and Dacca blocks, rice from the Northern block, and salt and railway materials from Calcutta.

The Western block receives principally coal and timber from Chota Nagpur; grain, stone and lime and oilseeds from Bihar; and salt, oilcake, wrought iron and steel, and sugar from Calcutta.

The exports from the Western block consist chiefly of coal and grain and pulse sent to Calcutta and coal to the Eastern block. Chota Nagpur exports principally coal and timber to Calcutta and the Eastern, Western and Bihar blocks. Bihar sends grain and pulse and oilseeds chiefly to Calcutta. The articles most largely exported from Calcutta are salt, railway materials, piece-goods, sugar, wrought iron and steel, fodder and gunny-bags and cloth; from the Eastern block jute, grain and pulse, kerosene, railway materials and fodder; from the Northern block jute, grain and pulse, tobacco and tea; and from the Dacca block jute.
